LABOUR LAW
FOREWORD

The history of Cambodia has indicated that the development of the labor law has evolved through five main stages as follows:

1. Pre-independence era:

   • Social measure were taken to gradually eradicate slavery pursuant to a Decree of February 1, 1898 with completely abolished slavery.

   • The very legal measure to govern the relationship between employers and employees were in initiated under the 1920 Civil Code within which a labor contract was required for the employment of workers.

   • Further detailed regulations on contact-related employment were issued in a 1927 Sub-decree to establish:
      • a 10 hours workdays.
      • materials requirement for living conditions.

   • A Joint Decree covering Indochina establishment:
      • the labor Inspectorates in 1927.
      • the Reconciliation Committee for individual and collective labor disputes between workers, employees and employers in 1930 and 1932.

   In 1936 the Government of Cambodia drafted and enacted 3 laws to Regulate three different categories of people involved in the labor filed:

   • the Decree of December 30, 1936 covering Indochinese people and other in the same classification.

   • the Decree of February 24, 1937 covering European and others in the same classification.

   • the Royal Ordinance No 84 NS of May 20, 1938 expanding the coverage to overseas Cambodia.

   These 3 laws have significantly marked a turning point in the historical Evolution of the Cambodia Labor Law.

   • The Regulation on liberalized on liberalized agricultural labor taking effect in 1942.

   • In 1947 the Royal Decree 375 NS of October 30, 1947 abrogated the 1938 Royal Ordinance and imposed the implementation of the French labor regulations on Cambodia nationals while Cambodia labor regulations was being drafting.

   Meanwhile, a Cambodia Inspectorate and a Social Affairs Office were established under the Ministry of Information and Social Affairs.
• After the singing the French-Cambodia Treaty on November 8, 1949, French labor inspectorates were officially transferred to the Cambodia Government and the Ministry of Labor and Social Affairs was establishment in 1951 by a Royal Decree No 651 NS of December 26, 1951.

2. Post-independence era to 1970:

From 1953 onward, significant events have marked this era:

• The transfer of the administration of the Cambodia courts from the French Administration to the Cambodia Government on August 29, 1953 and the organization of labor services which was establishment and subsequently strengthened. The Ministry of Labor and Social Affairs was also gradually reorganized. Various other legal documents were also use to broaden the scope of the Labor Law.

3. From 1970 to 1975:

The year of 1970 saw an important change when the labor administration of the Khmer Republic amended the Labor Law. Several major events of significant importance took place that time, namely:

• The Khmer Republic ratified its membership to the International labor Organization by Decree No 467/71 CE of April 7, 1971 which became effective on February 24, 1969.

• The complete overall of the labor administration through Decree No 701/707 CE of October 31, 1970.

• The determination of detailed responsibilities for technical officials working for the field of labor.

• The establishment of roles and responsibilities of the Ministry of Labor Social Affairs and Employment.

• The drafting of a new Labor Law.

• The ratification of various International Labor Conventions.

4. From 1979 to 1992:

• One should note that during the period 1975-1979 Cambodia fell under the genocidal Pol Pot regime where all the previous national achievements were completely shattered and Cambodia people brutally massacred.

From 1979 to 1992 some important events took place:

• The Social Affair Committee, an institution equivalent to that of a ministry, was established pursuant to Decision No 07 of October 24, 1979 in order to deal with issues related to social affairs such as: disabled veterans, orphans, windows and indigent elderly.

• The Ministry of Social Affairs and Disabled Veterans was established by Decree No 19 Kr.ch. of March 5, 1985 to supplant the Social Affairs Committee and to take charge of pensions for disabled officials, orphans of Deceased officials, armed force personnel, compensation settlement for Disabled veterans and supplementary income for families or dead soldiers.

- The Ministry of Social Affair and Labor was established by Decree No 53 Kr. Of May 2, 1992 to take additional responsibilities in the labor sector Pursuant to the labor law which was enacted by the National Assembly by Decree No 99 Kr. of October 13, 1992.

We should recall that the 1992 Labor law was drafted by the Department of Labor Wages of the Ministry of Planning and not by the Ministry of Social Affairs and Disabled Veterans. Only after the promulgation of the said law by Decree No 99 Kr. of October 13, 1992 that the government tasked the Ministry of Social Affairs and Labor as the agency to implement this law.

5. Form 1993 to present:

- Cambodia has adopted a democratic and multi pluralist policy since the 1993 general election.

- The Law No NS/RKM/0196/17 of January 24, 1996 establishment the Ministry of Social Affairs, Labor and Veteran Affairs to be responsible for Three social sectors: Social Affair Labor and Veteran Affairs.

- In 1994, with the kind support of ILO, the French Ministry of Labor, and AAFLI, the Ministry of Social Affairs, Labor and Veteran Affairs took the Existing 1992 Labor Law and various other labor related documents in Conformance with the 1993 Constitution as a foundation to draft the new “Labor Law” which was subsequently promulgated by Royal Decree No CS/RKM/0397/01 of March 13, 1997.

- The new Labor Law has in many respects completed the old labor law and regulations to make its implementation much more efficient and effective. A particular attention should be drawn on the fact that the 1997 Labor Law allows a great freedom of establishment of trade unions, rights to strike and to lockout, provisions which were not available in previous laws.

This law is a very important instrument to promote better working relationship, individual and collective bargaining, to resolve individual and collective labor disputes, and ensure labor sanitation, safety and general labor conditions of workers and employees in the Kingdom of Cambodia.

Cambodia is a state respecting the rule of law and as such the Ministry of Social Affairs, Labor and Veteran Affairs appeals to all workers, employee and employers as well as to labor officials to strictly implement the Labor Law for the benefits of all the parties concern.

SECTION I
SCOPE OF APPLICATION

DIFFERENCE CATEGORIES OF WORKERS IN THE KINGDOM OF CAMBODIA

ARTICLE 1

This law governs relations between employers and workers resulting from employment contracts to be performed within the territory of the Kingdom of Cambodia, regardless of where the contract was made and what the nationality and residences of the contracted parties are.

This law applies to every enterprise or establishment of industry, mining, commerce, crafts, agriculture, non religious, whether they are of professional education or charitable characteristic as well as the liberal profession, associations or groups of any nature whatsoever.

This law shall also apply to every personnel who is not governed by the Common Statutes for Civil Servants or by the Diplomatic Statutes as well as officials in the public service who are temporarily appointed.

This law shall not apply to:

a) Judges of the Judiciary

b) Person appointed to a permanent post in the public service.

c) Personnel of the Police, the Army, the Military Police, who are governed by a separate statute.

d) personnel serving in the air and maritime transportation, who are governed by a special legislation, these workers are entitled to apply the provisions on freedom of union under this law.

e) Domestics or household servants, unless otherwise expressly specified under this law. These domestics or household servants are entitled to apply the provisions on freedom of union under this law.

ARTICLE 2

All natural persons or legal entities, public or private, are considered to be employers who constitute an enterprise, within the meaning of this law, provided that they employ one or more workers, even discontinuously.

Every enterprise may consist of several establishments, each employing a group of people working together in a defined place such as in factory, workshop, work site, etc., under the supervision and direction of the employer.

A given establishment shall be always under the auspices of an enterprise. The establishment may employ just one person. If this establishment is unique and independent, it is both considered as an enterprise and an establishment.
ARTICLE 3
“Worker”, within the meaning of this law, are very person of all sex and nationality, who has signed an employment contract in return for remuneration, under the director and management of another person, whether that person is a natural person or legal entity, public or private. To clearly determine the characteristics of a worker, one shall not take into account of neither the jurisdictional status of the employer nor that of the worker, as well as the amount of remuneration.

ARTICLE 4
“Domestics” or household servants “are those workers who are engaged to take care of the home owner or of the owner’s property in return for remuneration.

ARTICLE 5
“Employee or helpers” are those who are contracted to assist any person in return for remuneration, but who do not perform manual labor fully or who do so incidentally.

ARTICLE 6
“Laborers” are those workers who are not household servants or employees, namely those who perform mostly manual labour in return for remuneration, under the direction of the employer or his representative.

The status of labourer is dependent of the method of remuneration, it is determined exclusively by the nature of the work.

ARTICLE 7
“Artisans” are persons, who practice a manual trade personally on their own account, working at home or outside, whether or not they use the motive force of automatic machines, whether or not they have a shop with a signboard, who primarily sell the products of their own work, carried out either alone or with the help of their spouse or family members who work without pay, or with the help of workers or apprentices, but the entire workshop is solely under the direction of their own.

The number of non-family workers, who regularly works for an artisan, cannot exceed seven; if this number is exceeded, the employer loses the status of artisan.

ARTICLE 8
“Apprentices” an those who have entered into an apprenticeship contract with an employer or artisan who has contracted to teach or use someone to teach the apprentice his occupation; and in return, the apprentice has to work for the employer according to the conditions and terms of the contract.

ARTICLE 9
In accordance with the stability of employment, it is distinguished:

- regular workers
- casual workers, who are engaged to perform an unstable job.

Regular workers are those who regularly perform a job on a permanent basis.

Casual workers are those who are contracted to:
• perform a specific work that shall normally be completed within a short period of time.
• perform a work temporarily, intermittently and seasonally.

ARTICLE 10
Casual workers are subject to the same rules and obligations and enjoy the same rights as regular workers, except for the clauses stipulated separately.

ARTICLE 11
In accordance with the method of remuneration, workers are classified as follows:
• Workers remunerated on a time basis (monthly, daily, hourly), who are paid daily or at intervals not longer than fifteen days or one month.
• Workers remunerated by the amount produced or piecework.
• Workers remunerated on commission.

SECTION II
NON-DISCRIMINATION

ARTICLE 12
Except for the provision fully expressing under this law, or in any other legislative text or regulation protecting women and children, as well as provisions relating to the entry and stay of foreigners, no employer shall consider on account of:

SIGNING AND EXECUTION OF A LABOUR CONTRACT

ARTICLE 65
A labour contract establishes working relations between the worker and the employer. It is subject to ordinary law and can be made in a form that is agreed upon by the contracting parties.

It can be written or verbal. It can be drawn up and signed according to local custom. If it needs registering, this shall be done at no cost.

The verbal contract is considered to be a tacit agreement between the employer and the worker under the conditions laid down by the labour regulations, even if it is not expressly defined.

ARTICLE 66
Every one can be hired for a specified work on the basis of time, either for a fixed duration or for an undermined duration.

ARTICLE 67
1. A labour contract signed with one consent for a specific duration must contain a precise finishing date.

2. The labour contract signed with one consent for a specific duration cannot be for a period longer than two years. It can be renewed one or more times, as long as the renewal does not surpass the maximum duration of two years.

Any violation of this rule leads the contracts to become a labour contract of undetermined duration.

3. Sometimes, this contract may have an unspecified date when it is drawn up for:

   • replacing a worker who is temporarily absent;
   • work carried out during a season, and
   • occasional periods of extra work or a non-customary activity of the enterprise.

The durations is then finished by:

   • the return to work of the worker who was temporarily absent or the termination of his labour contract:
• the end of the season, and
• the end of the occasional period of extra work or of the non-customary activity of the enterprise.

4. At the signing of the contract, the employer must inform and clarify the worker of the eventually sensitive issue and the approximate duration of the contract.

5. contract without a precise date can be renewed at will as many times as possible without losing their validity.

6. Contracts of daily or hourly workers who are hired for a short-term job and who are paid at the end of the day, the week or fortnight period, are considered to be contracts of fixed duration with an unspecified date.

7. A contract of a fixed. duration must be in writing. If not, it becomes a Labour contract of undetermined duration.

8. When a contract is signed for a fixed period of or less than two years, but the work tacitly and quietly continues after the end of the fixed period, the contract becomes a labour contract of undetermined duration.

ARTICLE 68
A contract for a probationary period cannot be for longer than the amount of time needed for the employer to judge the professional worth of the worker and for the worker to know concretely the working conditions provided. However, the probationary period cannot last longer than three months for regular employees, two months for specialized workers and one month for non-specialised workers.

The round trip travel costs incurred by a worker during the probationary period when working far from his habitual residence are to be covered by the employer.

ARTICLE 69
Within the framework of his contract, the worker shall perform all of his professional activities for the enterprise. Primarily, he must do the work for which he is hired, and performed it by himself with due care and attention.

However, outside working hours, the worker can engage in any professional activities that are not in competition with the enterprise for which he works or that are not harmful to the agreed process of performance, unless there is an agreements to the country.

ARTICLE 70
Any clause of a contract that prohibits the worker from engaging in any activity after the expiration of the contract is null and void.
SECTION II
SUSPENSION OF THE LABOUR CONTRACT

ARTICLE 71
The labour contract shall be suspended under the following reasons:

1. The closing of the establishment following the departure of the Employer to serve in the military or for mandatory period of military Training.

2. The absence of work during obligatory periods of military service and military training.

3. The absence of the worker for illness certified by a qualified doctor. This absence is limited to six months, but can, however, be extended until there is a replacement.

4. The period of disability resulting a work-related accident or Occupational illness.

5. The leave granted to a female worker during pregnancy and delivery, As well as for any post-natal illness.

6. Absence of the worker authorized by the employer, based on laws, Collective agreements, or individual agreements.

7. Temporary layoff of a worker for valid reasons in accordance with Internal regulations.

8. The absence of a worker during paid vacations, including an incidental Travel period as well.

9. The incarceration of a worker, without a later conviction.

10. An act of God that prevents one of the parties from fulfilling this obligations, up to a maximum of three months.

11. When the enterprise faces a serious economic or material difficulty or any particularly unusual difficulty, which leads to a suspension of the enterprise operation. This suspension shall not exceed two months and be under the control of the Labour Inspector.

An employer can reinsurance a suspended contract provided that the reasons for the suspension have been remedied and he has given prior notice in accordance with the law.

ARTICLE 72
1. The suspension of a labour contract affects only the main obligations of the contract, that are those under which the worker has to work for the employer, and the employer has to pay the worker, unless there are provisions to the contrary that require the employer to pay the worker. Other obligations such as furnishing of accommodation by the employer, as well as the worker’s loyalty and confidentiality towards the enterprise, continue to be in effect during the period of suspension.
2. The suspension of a labor contract does not lead to a suspension of the Union’s mandate or that of worker’s representative.

3. Unless otherwise specified, periods of suspension are taken into Account when calculating the employment seniority.

SECTION III
TERMINATION OF THE LABOUR CONTRACT

A. LABOUR CONTRACTS OF SPECIFIC DURATION

ARTICLE 73
A labor contract of specific duration normally terminated at the specified ending date. It can, however, be terminated before the ending date if both parties are in agreement on the condition that this agreement is made in form of writing in the presence of a Labour Inspector and signed by the two parties to the contract.

If both parties do not agree, a contract of specified duration can be cancelled before its termination date only in the event of serious misconduct or acts of God.

The premature termination of the contract by the will of the employer alone for reasons other than those mentioned in paragraphs 1 and 2 of this article entitles the worker to damages in an amount at least equal to the remuneration he would have received until the termination of the contract.

The premature termination of the contract by the will of the worker alone for reasons other than those mentioned in paragraphs 1 and 2 of his article entitles the employer to damages in an amount that corresponds to the damage sustained.

If the contract has a duration of more than six months, he worker must be informed of the expiration of the contract or of its non-renewal ten days in advance. This notice period is extended to fifteen days for contracts that have a duration of more than one year. If there is no prior notice, the contract shall be extended for a length of time equal to its initial duration or deemed as a contract of unspecified duration if its total length exceeds the time limit specified in Article 67.

At the expiration of the contract, the employer shall provide the worker with the severance pay proportional to both the wages and the length of the contract. The exact amount of the severance pay is set by a collective agreement. If nothing is set in such agreement, the severance pay is at least equal to five percent of the wages paid during the length of the contract.

If a contract of unspecified duration replaces a contract of specified duration upon the latter’s expiration, the employment seniority of the worker is calculated by including periods of both contracts.

In every case of contract termination, the worker can required the employer to provide him with an employment certificate.

B. Labour Contracts of Unspecified Duration
ARTICLE 74
The labour contract of unspecified duration can be terminated at will by one of the contracting parties. This termination shall be subject to the prior notice made in writing by the party who intends to terminate the contract to the other party.

However, no layoff can be taken without a valid reason relating to the worker’s aptitude or behavior, based on the requirements of the operation of the enterprise, establishment or group.

ARTICLE 75
The minimum period of a prior notice is set as follows:

- Seven days, if the worker’s length of continuous service is less than six months,
- Fifteen days, if the worker’s length of continuous service is from six months to two years,
- One month, if the worker’s length of continuous service is longer than two years and up to five years.
- Two months, if the worker’s length of continuous service is longer than five years and up to ten years.
- Three months, if the worker’s length for continuous service is longer than ten years.

Method for calculating the length of service of workers, who are not employed on a monthly basis, shall be determined by a Prakas of the Ministry in charge of Labour.

ARTICLE 76
Any article of a labour contract, of an internal regulation, or any other individual agreement that sets the prior notice period to be less than the minimum set forth in this provision shall be null and void.

ARTICLE 77
The termination of a labour contract at will on the part of the employer alone, without prior notice or without compliance with the prior notice periods, entails the obligation of the employer to compensate the worker the amount equal to the wage and all kinds of benefits that the worker would have received during the official notice period.

ARTICLE 78
The prior notice is the obligation to be observed in enterprises or establishment set forth in Article 1 of this law, both by the worker and by the employer when one of them decide unilaterally to terminated the labour contract. However, the worker laid off for reason other than serious misconduct can leave the enterprise before the end of the notice period if the finds a new job in the meantime. In such case, the worker will not be required to compensated the employer.
ARTICLE 79
During the notice period, the worker of the enterprise is entitled to two days leave per week with full payment to look for a new job.

ARTICLE 80
For task-work or piecework, the worker usually cannot abandon the task that he has been assigned before it has been finished.

However, for a long-term employment that cannot be completed in less than one month, one of the contracting parties who wishes to release himself from the obligations of the contract for serious reasons, he can do so as long he notifies the other party eight days in advance.

ARTICLE 81
Throughout the notice period, the employer and the worker shall be bound to carry out the obligations incumbent on them.

ARTICLE 82
The contracting parties are released from the obligation of giving prior notice under the following cases.

1. For a probation or an internship specified in the contract.
2. For a serious offense on the part of one of the parties.
3. For acts of God that one of the parties is unable to meet his obligations.

ARTICLE 83
The following are considered to be serious offenses:

A. ON THE PART OF THE EMPLOYER

1. The use of fraudulent measures to entice a worker into signing a contract under conditions to which he would not otherwise have agreed, if he had realized it.
2. Refusal to pay all or part of the wages.
3. Repeated late payment of wages.
4. Abusive language, threat, violence or assault.
5. Failure to provide sufficient work to a piece-worker.
6. Failure to implement labour health and safety measures in the workplace as required by existing laws.

B. ON THE PART OF THE EMPLOYER

1. Stealing, misappropriation, embezzlement.
2. Fraudulent acts committees at the time of signing (presentation of false Documentation) or during employment (sabotage, refusal to comply with the terms of the employment contract, divulging professional confidentiality)

3. Serious infractions of disciplinary, safety and health regulations.

4. Threat, abusive language or assault against the employer or other workers.

5. Inciting other workers to commit serious offenses.

6. Political propaganda, activities or demonstrations in the establishment.

ARTICLE 84
Pending the creation of the Labour Court, the ordinary court has the jurisdiction to determine the magnitude of offenses other than those included in the preceding article.

ARTICLE 85
The employer may find himself unable to meet his obligations in the context of Article 82-paragraph 3, particularly in the following cases:

1. The closing of the establishment by public authorities and

2. Catastrophe (flooding, earthquake, war) that cause material destruction and make it impossible to resume work for a long time. For death of the employer that cause the closure of the establishment, the workers are entitled to an indemnity equal to that of the notice period.

ARTICLE 86
The employer may find himself unable to meet his obligations in the context of Article 82 – paragraph 3, particularly in the following cases.

1. Chronic illness, insanity, permanent disability and

2. Imprisonment.

In cases cited in the first paragraph above, the employer cannot be released from his obligation to give the prior notice.

ARTICLE 87
If a change occurs in the legal status of the employer, particularly by succession or inheritance, sale merger or transfer of fund to a company, all labour contracts in effect on the day of the change remain binding between the new employer and the worker of the former enterprise.

The contract cannot be terminated except under the conditions laid down in the present Section.

The closing of an enterprise, except for acts of God, does not release the employer from his obligations as stated in this section III. Bankruptcy and judicial liquidation are not considered as acts of God.
ARTICLE 88

In businesses of a seasonal nature, as per list determined by a Prakas of the Minister in charge of Labour, the layoff of workers at the end of a work period cannot be considered as dismissal and does not result in any compensation. However, the lay-off should be announced at least eight days in advance by a written notice conspicuously posted at the main entry of each work site, and if applicable, on each boat on which there is a work site.

C. Indemnity For Dismissal

ARTICLE 89

If the labour contract is terminated by the employer alone, except in the case of a serious offense by the worker, the employer is required to give the dismissed worker, in addition to the prior notice stipulated in the present Section, the indemnity for dismissal as explained below:

1. Seven days of wage and fringe benefits if the worker’s length of Continuous service at the enterprise is between six and twelve months.

2. If the worker have more than twelve months of service, an indemnity for dismissal will be equal to fifteen days of wage and fringe benefits for each year of service. The maximum of indemnity cannot exceed six months of wage and fringe benefits. If the worker’s length of service is longer than one year, time fractions of service of six months or more shall be counted as an entire year.

The worker is also entitled to his indemnity if he is laid off for reasons of health.

ARTICLE 90

Indemnity for dismissal must be granted to the worker and, if applicable, he can also claim damages even through the contract was not terminated by the employer, but the latter, through his incitements, pushed the worker in to ending the contract himself. If the employer treats the worker unfairly or repeatedly violated the terms of the contract himself. If the employer treats the worker unfairly or repeatedly violates the terms of the contract, he also has to pay indemnities and damages to the worker.

D. Damages

ARTICLE 91

The termination of a Labour contract without valid reasons, by either party to the contract, entitles the other party to damages.

These damages are not the same as the compensation in lieu of prior notice or the dismissal indemnity.

The worker, however, can request to be giving a lump sum equal to the dismissal indemnity. In case, he is relieved of the obligation to provide proof of damage incurred.
ARTICLE 92

When a worker has unjustly breached a labour contract and takes a new job, the new employer is jointly liable for damages caused to the former employer if it is proven that he has encouraged the worker to leave the former job.

ARTICLE 93

Any worker who was engaged to furnish his services may, upon expiration of the contract, demand from his employer a certificate of employment containing primarily the starting date of employment, the dated of departure, and the kind of job held, or, if applicable, the jobs held successively as well as the periods during which the job were held.

The refusal to supply this certificate will subject the employer to pay damages to the worker.

The certificates supplied to workers are exempt from all stamp and registration tax, even if the contain items other than those mentioned in the preceding paragraph, as long as these items do not include any bond, receipt or any agreement liable to ad valorem duties.

The phrase “free from all engagement” and all other terms indicating the normal expiration of a labour contract, the professional qualifications and the service rendered are included in this exemption.

Any harmful statement that could prejudice the employment of a worker are formally prohibited.

ARTICLE 94

Without prejudice to the provisions of Article 91, the damages owed in the case of a breach of the labour contract without valid reasons, as well as those owed by the employer as per provision of Article 89 above, are determined by the competent court and based on local custom, the type and importance of the service rendered, the worker’s seniority and age, the pay deductions or payments for a retirement pension, and, in general, on all circumstances that can justify the existence and the extent of the harm incurred.

ARTICLE 95

Any layoff resulting from a reduction in an establishment’s activity or an internal re-organization that is foreseen by the employer is subject to the following procedures:

- The employers establishes the order of the layoffs in light of professionals, qualifications, seniority within the establishment, and family burdens of the workers.
- The employer must inform the worker’s representatives in writing in order to solicit their suggestions, primarily, on the measures for a prior announcement of the reduction in staff and the measure taken to minimize the effects of the reduction on the affected workers.
- The First workers to be laid off will be those with the least professional ability, then the workers with the least seniority. These seniority has to be increased by one year for a married worker and by an additional year for each dependent child.

The dismissed workers have, for two years, priority to be re-hired for the same position in the enterprise.

Workers who have priority for re-hire are required to inform their employer of any changes in address occurring after the layoff.

If there is a vacancy, the employer must inform the concerned worker by sending a recorded delivery or registered letter to his last address. The worker must appear at the establishment within one week after receiving the letter.

The Labour Inspector is kept informed of the procedure covered in this article. At the request of the worker’s representatives, the Labour Inspector can call the concerned parties together one or more times to examine the impact of the proposed layoffs and measures to be taken to minimize their effects.

In exceptional cases, the Minister in charge of Labour can issue a Prakas to suspend the layoff for a period not exceeding thirty days in order to help the concerned parties find a solution. This suspension may be repeated only one time by a Prakas of the Ministry.

CHAPTER V
COLLECTIVE LABOUR AGREEMENTS

ARTICLE 96
1. The purpose of the collective agreement is to determine the working and employment conditions of workers and to regulated relations between employers and workers as well as their respective organizations. The collective agreement can also extend its legally recognized roles to trade union organizations and improve the guarantees protecting workers against social risks.

2. The collective agreement is written agreement relating to the provisions provided for in Article 96-paragraph 1. The collective agreements is signed between:
   a) one part: an employer, a group of employers, or one or more organizations representative of employers, and
   c) the other part: one or more trade union organizations representative of workers. With derogations of the above principle, during the transitional period that there is no trade union organization representative of workers in an enterprise or establishment, a collective agreement can be made between the employer and the shop stewards who have been duly elected as per the conditions of Section III, Chapter XI.

3. The collective agreements is concluded for a definite term or for an indefinite term. When it is for a definite term, this term may not exceed three years. At its expiration, it shall remain in effected unless it has been cancelled, on the condition of keeping a three month’s notice, by either party. When the collective agreement is collective agreement is concluded by shop stewards under the exceptional conditions laid in paragraph 2 of this article, the term of such agreements is not exceed one year. When the collective agreement is concluded for an indefinite term, it can be cancelled, but it continues to be effected for a period of one year to the party that forwarded a complaint to cancel it. The notice of cancellation does not prevent the agreement from being implemented by the other signatories.

Collective agreements shall specify their scope of application. This can be an enterprise, a group of enterprises, an industry or branch of industry, or one or several sectors of economic activities.

ARTICLE 97

The provision of collective agreement shall apply to employers concerned and all categories of workers employed in the establishments as specified by the collective agreement.

ARTICLE 98

The provisions of collective agreements can be more favorable toward workers than those of laws and regulations in effect. However, the collective agreements cannot be contrary to the provisions on the public order of these laws and regulations.

Any provisions of labour contracts between employers and workers, already covered by a collective agreement, that are less favorable than the provisions provided for in this collective labour agreement shall be nullified and must be replaced automatically by the relevant provisions of the collective agreement.

A collective agreement of an enterprise or an establishment can adapt to the provisions of a collective agreement covering the wider scope of application that is applicable to the enterprise under the specified conditions of the enterprise or the establishment in question. The collective agreement of the enterprise or establishment can include new provisions and clauses that are more favorable to workers.

In the event of agreements covering the wider scope of applicable to an enterprise or establishment, the provisions of these agreements must be adapted accordingly by the collective agreement of the enterprise or establishment.

ARTICLE 99

At the request of a professional organization of workers or employers that is representative in the relevant scope of application, or on its own initiative, the Minister in charge of Labour, after consultation with the Labour Advisory Committee, may extend all or some of the provisions of a collective agreement to all employers and all workers included in the occupational area and scope of this agreement.

ARTICLE 100

In the absence of collective agreement, the Ministry in charge of Labour, after having received the approval from the Labour Advisory Committee, can issue a Prakas to lay the working conditions for a particular occupation.

ARTICLE 101

The Prakas of the Ministry in charge of Labour shall determine:

a) the conditions and methods for implementing the procedure for extending the scope of application as specified in Article 99,

b) the conditions and methods for implementing the regulatory procedure set out in Article 100,
c) the methods or registering, filling, publishing and posting the collective agreements, and
d) the methods for monitoring the enforcement of those agreements, in case of necessity.

CHAPTER VI
GENERAL WORKING CONDITIONS

WAGE

A. WAGE DETERMINATION

ARTICLE 102
For the purpose of this law, the term “wage” irrespective of what the determination or the method of calculation is means the remuneration for the employment or services that is convertible in cash or set by agreement or by the national legislation, and that shall be given to a worker by an employer, by virtue of a written or verbal contract of employment or services, either for work already done or to be done or for services already rendered or to be rendered.

ARTICLE 103
Wage includes, in particular:

• actual wage or remuneration:
• overtime payments,
• bonuses and indemnities;
• profit sharing;
• gratuities,
• the valued of benefits in kind;
• family allowance in excess of the legally prescribed amount;
• holiday pay for compensatory holidays pay; and
• amount of money paid by the employer to the workers during disability and maternity leave.

Wage does not include:

• health care;
• legal family allowance;
travel expenses; and benefits grated exclusively to help the worker do his or her job.

B. GUARANTEED MINIMUM WAGE

ARTICLE 104
The wage must be at least equal to the guaranteed minimum wage; that is, it must ensure every worker of a decent standard of living compatible with human dignity.

ARTICLE 105
Any written or verbal agreement that would remunerated the worker at a rate less than the guaranteed minimum wage shall be null and void.

ARTICLE 106
For work of equal conditions, professional skill and output, the wage shall be equal for all workers subject to this law, regardless of their origin, sex or age.

ARTICLE 107
1. The guaranteed minimum wage is established without distinction among professional or jobs, its may very according to region based on economic factors that determine the standard of living.

2. The minimum wage is set by a Prakas of the Ministry in charge of Labour, after receiving recommendations from the Labour Advisory Committee. The wage is adjusted from time to time in accordance with the evolution of economic conditions and the cost of living.

3. Elements to take into consideration for determining the minimum wage shall include, to the extent possible:

   a) the needs of workers and their families in relation to the general level of salary in the country, the cost of living, social security allowances, and the comparative standard of living of other social groups;

   b) economic factors, including the requirements of economic development, productivity, and the advantages of achieving and maintaining a high level of employment.

ARTICLE 108
For task-work or piecework, whether it is done in the workshop or at home the wage must be calculated in a manner that permits the worker of mediocre ability working normally to earn, for the same amount of time worked, a wage at least equal to the guaranteed minimum wage as determined for a worker.

ARTICLE 109
Minimum wages established by virtue of this law must be permanently posted in the workplace and in payment and recruitment offices.
ARTICLE 110
The employer shall include the commissions or gratuities, if any, when calculating remuneration for paid holiday, dismissal indemnity in the event of dismissal and for damages in the event of termination of the labour contract without prior notice, or for an abusive breach of the labour contract. The calculation is based on the average monthly commissions or gratuities previously received over a period not to exceed the twelve months of service up to the date of leave or termination work.

ARTICLE 111
The specifications for a labour contract of government services or of public institutions shall include all necessary stipulations to ensure the enforcement of the provisions of this law pertaining to the guaranteed minimum wage and general work regulations.

ARTICLE 112
The employer must take measures to inform the workers in a precise and easily comprehensible fashion of:

a) The terms regarding wage that apply to the workers before they are assigned to a job or at any time that these terms change.

b) The items that make up their wage for every pay period when there is a change to the items.

C. PAYMENT OF WAGES

ARTICLE 113
The wage must be paid directly to the worker concerned, unless the worker agrees to get paid through other methods. The wage shall be paid in coin or bank note, which is legally circulating, notwithstanding provisions to the contrary.

ARTICLE 114
The employer, however, is prohibited from restricting the worker’s freedom to using his wage at his disposal.

ARTICLE 115
Except for acts of God, wages shall be paid at the workplace or in the employer’s office if it is nearby.

The payment of wages in the form of alcohol or harmful drugs shall not be allowed in any circumstances. Furthermore, the payment of wages shall not be made in a drink shop or in a retail business or in places of recreation, except for persons being employed in such establishments.

Payment shall not be made on a day-off. If payday falls on such a day-off, the payment of wages shall made a day earlier.

ARTICLE 116
Labourer’s wages shall be paid at least two times per month, at a maximum of Sixteen-day intervals.

Employee’s wages must be paid at least once per month.
Commissions due to sale agents or commercial representatives must be paid at least every three months.

For all task-work or piecework that is to be executed for longer than fifteen days, the dates of payment can be fixed by agreement, but the labour must receive partial payments every fifteen days and be paid in full in the week following the delivery of the work.

In the event of termination of a labour contract, wage and indemnity of any kind must be paid within forty-eight hours following the date of termination of work.

ARTICLE 117
In case of an unjustified delay in the payment of wages, the Labour Inspector shall serve notice on the employer to pay the wage of his workers by setting the deadline by which payment must be made.

If payment is not made by the deadline, the Labour Inspector shall write up a report and bring the matter, at no cost, before the competent court that may take any measure to keep the asset in the interest of the workers, including appointing a provisional administrator as well.

The Labour Inspector can then take any actions to force the employer to fulfill his obligations toward his workers and employees.

ARTICLE 118
In the event of disputes over the payment of wage, the employers has the duty to prove that the made the payment.

This proof can be derived from the signature of the worker concerned or those of two witnesses if he is illiterate, on the payroll ledger that the employer is required to keep.

ARTICLE 119
It is not adverse to the worker to confirm that “all wages and remuneration are already paid” or for any other similar term of confirmation which indicate that the worker has renounced all or part of his rights in the contract, either during the execution or after the termination of the labour contract.

Even though the worker accepts payment without protest, this does not mean that he has renounced the right to payment of all or part of his wages, allowances, or other benefits granted him by legislative, regulatory, or contractual provisions.

D. LAPSE OF LAWSUITS FOR PAYMENT OF WAGE

ARTICLE 120
The statute of limitation for a lawsuit for the payment of wages is three years from the date the wage was due.

Claim subject to the statute of limitation of a lawsuit include the actual wage, perquisites and all other claims of the worker resulting from the labour contract, as well as the indemnity in the event of dismissal.
E. GUARANTEES AND PRIORITY OF WAGE CLAIMS

ARTICLE 121
Amount owed to contractors of any kind cannot be garnished nor can payment be objected with prejudice to worker’s wage payments.

Wage owed to workers shall be paid before payment is made to supplies of supplies used for construction.

ARTICLE 122
Wage claims of the workers, including domestics or household servants, shall take priority over the movable or immovable properties of the debtor within the last six months prior to the declaration of bankrupt or the court-ordered liquidation of the employer.

Sale agents and commercial representatives have priority for commission and remittances earned for the last six months prior to the declaration of bankrupt or court-ordered liquidation.

Priority established by this article applies to the claims of workers for paid holidays and compensation for notice period and to dismissal indemnity.

ARTICLE 123
Priorities claims provided for in Article 122 above, are opposable to all other general and special priority, including the priority of the National Treasury.

Amounts deducted by the National Treasury from the money order of the employer after the date when payment of debt was stopped, shall be returned to debtors (sub creditors)

ARTICLE 124
Workers benefit from out classing all of creditors for a portion of their claim: the un attachable portion of wages earned by laborers during the last fifteen days, by employees during the last thirty days, and by commercial representatives during the last ninety days prior to the declaration of bankruptcy or court-ordered liquidation.

This part of their claim is paid to the workers, before other claims, just within ten days following the declaration of bankruptcy or court-order liquidation by a simple ruling of a judge, from the funds existing at the time the bankruptcy was declared or the liquidation was ordered, or from the first funds that become available.

ARTICLE 125
In order to determine the amount of wage in view of enforcing the provisions of Article 124 above, not only the actual wages are taken into account but also the other items of remuneration covered in Article 103 of this law, as well as any damages due eventually for the breach of contract.
F. WAGE DEDUCTION

ARTICLE 126
Wage deductions for the purpose of job placement that are provided directly or indirectly to an employer, to his representative, or to any intermediary such as a labour recruiter are prohibited.

ARTICLE 127
None of the balance can be made, in favour of the employer, between the worker’s wage and the employer’s claim for diverse supplies of whatever kind, with the exception of:

1. Tools and equipment required for the work and that are not returned by the worker upon his departure;
2. Items and materials under the control and usage of the worker;
3. Amounts advances to acquire the said items;
4. Amounts owed to have the company store.

However the total amount deducted from the wage, in any case, cannot surpass the portion deemed necessary to provide the basic living for the worker and his family.

ARTICLE 128
Any employer who makes a cash advance, other than the amount advanced for the purchase of tools, equipment, items and materials that the worker takes charge of and uses, can get reimbursed only by series of gradual deductions that do not exceed the transferable or attachable portion of the wage.

The deducted amounts are not to be confused with the attachable portion of the wage as determined by laws in effect. The employer has the priority to deduct this attachable portion before a third party to whom the worker owes.

Installments, as stipulated in Article 116 above, and partial wage payments made before the normal deadline but in payment for finished work, can be fully deducted from the following paycheck.

ARTICLE 129
Collective agreements authorizing any wage deductions other than these cases are null and void.

However, the worker can authorize deduction of his wage for dues to the trade union to which he beings. This authorization must be writing and can be revoked at any time.

G. GARNISHMENT AND ASSIGNMENT OF WAGE OF WORKERS AND DOMISTICS

ARTICLE 130
Wage can be garnished or assigned only as follows:
1. The portion of wage that less than or equal to the guaranteed minimum wage cannot be garnishment or assigned.

2. A maximum of twenty percent of the portion of wage greater than the guaranteed minimum wage to three times the minimum wage can be garnished assigned.

3. A maximum of thirty percent of the portion of wage greater than three times the guaranteed minimum wage to ten times the minimum wage can be garnished of assigned.

4. A maximum of fifty percent of the portion of wage greater than ten times the minimum wage can be garnished or assigned.

The wage taken into account for this calculation is the monthly wage.

ARTICLE 131
The limits, stipulated in Article 130 above, do not apply to food creditors, since the purpose of the unattachable portion of the wages is to feed the worker’s family.
